

Hardware

The interface slot of the P7001 processor is a dual slot design. The USB+ Interface takes advantage of that. One slot is used for the circuit board and the other is used for mechanical stability.

Optionally, the module can be equipped with an electrically isolated USB interface.

The Rear panel with its pan-headed screws was designed to match the other panels at the rear of the DPO.

